The learning expedition

Sometimes you need to know the basic facts. Which of your pupils can name the highest mountain on Earth?

But sometimes you want to take your pupils higher – perhaps to the summits of Nepal. Show them the footprints, the flags and broken trails. The top of a cloud.

Your pupils can't wait to hear snow crunching beneath their boots. But you want to make sure they understand the significance of the expedition. You want to ask questions that assess learning on a different plane. A higher level.

The Senteo interactive response system – look who's learning

Questions can urge pupils to reason and ask them to contemplate. Answers should reflect the heightened understanding that comes from breaking trails.

The Senteo™ interactive response system helps you reflect that understanding.

Senteo enables you to quiz, poll, assess and gauge pupil understanding with the power of SMART's Notebook™ software. Because Senteo is a fully integrated arm of Notebook software, it offers both potential and simplicity to teachers using the SMART Board™ interactive whiteboard.

If you know Notebook, you know Senteo

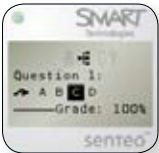

With the Senteo interactive response system, questions, conversations and answers flow through lessons without glitches or gaps – you don't have to learn a new process. Just tap the Quiz link on your Notebook software menu to create a question. Senteo runs with most third-party applications, including PowerPoint® software.

No program switching, no codes to remember. Save your creative energy for the pupils.

A question of creativity

Answers to a creative question can tell you a lot about your pupils – not just whether they understand, but at what level. Senteo gives you the options you need to promote and evaluate higher understanding, from numeric responses to questions with more than one right answer.

But learning paths can take unexpected turns. SMART Board software helps questions stay relevant to the ideas that shape discussion. On Notebook software's question-creation page, you can edit and manipulate on the spot, throwing in unanticipated questions and ending with a customised quiz. Then animate questions with maps, images or videos from Notebook software, making quizzes visual. Give them a look at the summits of Nepal.

Feedback – a two-way channel

When it's time to quantify discussion results, Senteo responds immediately to both pupil and teacher with complete confidentiality so that even the shyest class member will participate. Pupils simply click their answers on Senteo and a tick or cross on their handset screen lets them know immediately how well they have understood a concept.

And as soon as the answers are in, you know who's keeping up. Choose a graph or chart to get detailed response breakdowns on one question or all.

In your next class, don't just look at a map. Leave a footprint on Everest. Take Senteo along. It's versatile. Mobile. Perfect for any expedition.

The Senteo interactive response system lets you

- Ask questions in many ways – multiple choice (including sorting and more than one right answer), true or false and numeric responses
- Incorporate decimals, fractions and negative numbers into questions and answers
- Assess with flexibility – ad hoc questions, summative and formative assessment
- Offer a raised-hand function to pupils – they can ask for help anonymously
- Offer immediate or delayed feedback to pupils
- Share questions and lesson plans with other teachers
- Create personalised study guides based on individual responses
- Give any unit to any pupil – Senteo is interchangeable
- Have unrestricted movement – Senteo works on a radio frequency remote, so no line of sight is required

The Senteo interactive response system works well with others

- Import questions from Microsoft® Word without coding or special symbols
- Export answers to Microsoft Excel® spreadsheet software, then to gradebook software
- Have full compatibility with PowerPoint presentation software
- Work with Windows® and Mac OS operating systems

Keep learning. Press on.
